Congo: A UN official in Leopoldville told the US Embassy on 8 February that Tshombé had agreed in principle to the stationing of a battalion of UN troops each in Jadotville, Kolwezi, and Kipushi. Tshombé, however, in conversations with UN officials in Elisabethville, has emphasized that any introduction of UN forces into Jadotville and Kolwezi should be carefully prepared, and has warned of the possibility of resistance. Jose Rolz-Bennet, the senior UN official in Elisabethville, has also indicated concern over the possibility of Katangan resistance if UN troops are sent to these points.

Rolz-Bennet advised the US Consulate on 8 February that the first of several joint UN-Katangan inspection teams -

Czech Party Shake-up

The brief communique of the central committee session hints that Barak may be attacked for agricultural failures and lagging economic progress. It also suggests that he opposed the policies adopted at the 22nd CPSU Congress. His replacement as a deputy premier by a relatively unknown central committee industrial specialist suggests that his responsibilities for internal security and national defense may be assumed by party chief Novotny or apportioned among other older, more trusted leaders.

The US embassy in Prague has reported rumors of widespread arrests of other high-ranking party leaders.

The simultaneous replacement of Minister of Construction Oldrich Beran, who became prominent in 1953 at the same time as Barak, suggests the possibility of a future purge of persons associated with Barak.

Until recently Barak has been regarded as Novotny's heir apparent. US Embassy observers in Prague comment that Barak's disgrace may split the Czechoslovak party, but they feel that Novotny will retain his primacy.
